EVENTS

March 2009: Artizan Sarai was present at the screening of “FrontRunner” at the Paley Center for Media in New York City, a documentary about Dr. Massouda Jalal, the first Afghan woman to run for President of Afghanistan in 2004. The screening included a dinner and a panel discussion including Dr. Jalal, Dr. M. Nadir Atash, S.K. Guha, and Shireen Zaman. Attendees of the screening enjoyed a buffet dinner, and an opportunity to visit the Artizan Sarai table which showcased products from the Afghanistan collection.

EVENTS

March 2009: Artizan Sarai was invited to Mary Apick's famous play "Beneath the Veil" at the Geffen Playhouse in Los Angeles on March 16th, 2009.

Winner of the 2005 Los Angeles Theatre Festival's Critics' Choice Award, "Beneath the Veil" is the provocative and spine chilling portrayal of the true lives of women and girls in the 21st century who have been forced to cover their faces in public, as well as those who freely choose to wear the veil. The message of the play is "choice and freedom"—the birthright of every human, including women and girls. Samira Atash sold her famous "Burqa Buddha" t-shirts at the celebrity studded event.
